To whom this might concern

A group of four advisors from SEGES P/S attended a well-planned and organized tour, according to our specifications. The planning process was smooth and friendly even though there was a challenge with national holidays and a very tight timeframe.

Everything was planned to the smallest detail, from the pickup in the airport, to the return early Friday morning.

We experienced different visits through the food chain, from the dairy herds to several different organizations, research centers and companies within the Israeli dairy production and dairy management.

We experienced very enthusiastic and knowledgeable professionals who presented their work and field of research.

This was a great opportunity to follow up on questions to all the impressions we experienced during our 10-12 hour daily program.

We will at any time recommend other visitors with special interest into agriculture and dairy business to cooperate with the Israeli Dairy School. Ofier Langer and his team can be proud of professional and well organized tours which meet all our needs.
